

Can you make money doing fiber optic cable engineering

Overview

Fiber Optics Engineer make $109,571 per year on average, or $52.68 per hour, in the United States. Ever considered becoming an optical fibre engineer?

Here's our guide to what the job's all about and the skills you'll need. If a construction crew is digging and disrupts or damages a fiber optic cable, it can cause disconnection for many people and is often time consuming.

Pulling/splicing/terminating fiber is physical in nature. Aerial work is almost inevitable, as is outside plant. Location impacts how much a Fiber Optics Engineer. In rural Arizona, a crew of more than 40 workers is trenching through high desert to lay fiber optic cable to communities that have never had broadband. The directional drill operators on that job earn $25 to $45 an hour — nearly double the typical local wage — and the contractor still can't hire.
