

Lebanese fiber optic cable manufacturer for smart buildings

AI Overview

Key Lebanese suppliers of fiber optic cables for smart building projects include Fiber Works & Communications (FWC), OptiLink, IMATEL, and Tele-Projects.

Leading Suppliers

Fiber Works & Communications (FWC) S.A.R.L. specializes in high-speed and wide-area network solutions, providing fiber optic products for enterprise and public projects, including Lebanon's FTTX infrastructure. They offer system integration and support for data and voice connectivity, making them suitable for smart building networks. OptiLink supplies a full range of optical transceivers and fiber optic cables compatible with major networking brands like Cisco, Huawei, and MikroTik. They focus on enterprise-grade fiber connectivity and provide tested, certified components for data centers, ISPs, and smart building applications. IMATEL S.A.R.L. is a longstanding telecommunications provider in Lebanon, offering fiber optic cables along with telephony, networking, security, and home automation systems. Their solutions cover low-current systems and smart building infrastructure. Tele-Projects represents multinational brands such as CommScope and supplies fiber optic connectivity solutions for contractors and public projects. They provide certified products and system integration services suitable for smart building deployments.
