Overview of Overhead Supports

Cable tray overhead supports, also known as hangers or brackets, are used to secure cable trays from ceilings or other overhead structures. They come in various profiles such as U-profile, C-profile, Z-profile, and GRP (glass-fiber reinforced polyester), with lengths ranging from 110 mm to over 2000 mm depending on the application and load requirements. Materials include steel (galvanized or epoxy-coated), stainless steel, aluminum, and GRP, each offering different levels of strength, corrosion resistance, and cost.

- Aluminum supports: Lightweight and corrosion-resistant, aluminum supports are ideal for humid or chemically aggressive environments, costing around $6 to $30 per meter.
- FRP/GRP supports: Glass-fiber reinforced polyester supports offer high corrosion resistance and are suitable for harsh environments, with prices ranging from $10 to $50 per meter.
