

Price of full-color optical fiber cable in Nepal

AI Overview

The price of optical fiber cables in Nepal ranges from approximately NPR 3,000 to NPR 6,000 per 100 meters, depending on type, core count, and supplier.

Retail Prices

Online retailers like Daraz Nepal list 100-meter fiber optic cables at prices starting around NPR 3,000 to NPR 4,500, with variations based on cable type, core count, and quality . ITShop Nepal and D-TECH Trading also offer 6-core and 12-core cables suitable for FTTH, ISP, CCTV, and telecom projects, with prices generally in the NPR 3,500–6,000 per 100 meters range . These suppliers provide options for outdoor, aerial, and long-distance installations.

Import and Market Prices

The average import price of optical fiber cables into Nepal was about $3,357 per ton in 2025, reflecting a decrease of nearly 9% from the previous year . Import duties in Nepal include 15% customs duty, 13% VAT, and a 5% infrastructure development fee, though telecommunications projects may qualify for a 50% duty rebate . Prices vary by country of origin, with cables from China being among the most affordable.

Factors Affecting Price

- Cable type: ADSS, OPGW, and bend-insensitive G657.A2 fibers carry different costs. Bend-insensitive fibers may have a 25% premium but are often justified for Nepal's mountainous terrain .
- Length and core count: Higher core counts and longer lengths increase unit cost.
